A covenant not to engage in any other trade, does not prevent a partner, in contemplation of a dissolution, from canvassing for future business. But where there is a covenant not to engage in a particular business, Semble expressio unius est exclusio alterius; and that it is open to him to engage in any other. It seems, that when a partner engages in a separate business in violation of his articles, his partners will be entitled to a share of the profits. J Secus where permission has been given. 4. That neither the said A and B shall, during the continuance of the partnership, directly or indirectly, engage in any trade, manufacture, or business, except upon account and for the benefit of the said partnership. This book can be well worth a go through, and a lot better than other. It is written in simple words and phrases and not confusing. It's been printed in an exceptionally simple way in fact it is merely right after I finished reading through this pdf by which basically changed me, modified the way I think.
