Excerpt: . . . The Junior Department or Class Doers of the Word, and not hearers only Genbal Statement DURING the past few years, the opinion has grown rapidly that the period of life, known as later childhood, affords wonderful opportunities and presents special needs for religious instruction and training. The success of the few Junior Departments in existence toward the close of the nineteenth century proved what might and ought to be done to help boys and girls who were too old for the Primary Department and too young to be merged with the Main School with adolescents and adults. As the Cradle Roll provides for the babies, the Beginners Department for little children not in public school, the Primary Department for school children, unable to use the Bible easily and intelligently as their text-book, so the Junior Department provides for the reading boys and girls, who...
